Rules for the levy of water cess on Government dry lands and on minor inam lands and lands in whole inam villages irrigated by the Bhavanasi project in the Ongole taluk of the Guntur district.

I. When water is supplied from the Bhavanasi project to Government dry lands and to minor inam lands and lands in whole inam villages, the following rates of water cess will be charged :—

	Rs.	a.	p.
(1) For each wet crop per acre	9	0	0
(2) For each dry crop per acre	4	11	0
(3) For dufasal crops per acre	14	1	0

(4) The water-rate for a second wet crop will be half the rate charged for a first wet crop and the charge for a dry crop whether first or second will be the same

Note.—When water is raised by mechanical contrivances, the water-rate will be reduced by one-fourth.

II (1) Cultivators of lands registered as dry will apply for water for wet crops every year in the ordinary printed form of water application to the Deputy Tahsildar, Addanki, not later than the dates specified below :—

(a) For a first crop—Not later than 30th April

(b) For a second crop—Not later than 30th June.

(2) When water is required for dry crops, application may be made at any time, but sufficiently in advance of irrigation of the crops, and should be in triplicate. These applications will be dealt with in accordance with the procedure prescribed in clause (1) supra.

(3) The Deputy Tahsildar will enter his orders on the duplicate and triplicate copies of the application. He will retain the duplicate and return the triplicate to the applicant through the village headman. (4) Printed forms of applications will be kept in stock by the village headmen.

No. 351.—The following resolution of the Government of India is republished :—

FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

SEPARATE REVENUE—INCOME-TAX.

Simla, the 9th October 1919.

No. 2351-F.—The Government of India have from time to time received numerous representations regarding the allowances fixed in the various provinces on account of depreciation under the Income-tax Act. The criticisms levelled at the existing practice have alleged in some cases inadequacy in the rates allowed and, more generally, the hardship involved to various businesses on account of the prevalence of a variety of rates in the different provinces. Early in 1918 Local Governments were requested to submit their recommendations, after consulting expert opinion and Chambers of Commerce, and, apart from the rates which should be allowed in particular cases, their advice was invited on the fundamental question whether depreciation allowances should be calculated on the written down value, as is ordinarily done in the United Kingdom, or upon prime cost. In their replies Local Governments were practically unanimous in recommending that prime cost is for India the most convenient basis of calculation, but in other respects their views showed considerable diversity. The problem has been approached from different standpoints, some calculated depreciation on block, allowing different rates for different industries, while others calculated it on the various classes of plant employed, and this, combined with divergence in local conditions has made their specific proposals on matters of detail by no means uniform.

2. The Government of India after examining the various suggestions put forward by Local Governments prepared a tentative schedule of rates for universal application, harmonising to a considerable extent the diverse proposals which had been made. The problem having thus been foreseen it appeared to them desirable to submit it to a more detailed examination, and they therefore requested the Board of Special Referees, appointed under the Excess Profits Duty Act, to take the opportunity of their visits to important commercial centres to consult representative opinion and to frame proposals in the light of the advice which they received. The Board accordingly discussed the question with commercial and industrial representatives in Calcutta, Bombay, and Cawnpore and found it generally agreed that the normal basis of calculation should be the class of business concerned, and not the classes of plant or machinery employed. In accordance with this view, and with the advice on various details which they received, they have now proposed for the approval of Government a schedule of rates which they consider fair and likely to be acceptable to all concerned. They have, however, suggested, that as the representatives consulted had not expert acquaintance with all the industries affected, the schedule which they have prepared might with advantage be published for general information. This suggestion the Government of India have adopted and the schedule is now published as an annexure to this resolution. Any criticisms or suggestions in respect of the rates per cent proposed in the schedule should be communicated to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Finance Department, not later than the 1st January 1920.

5. The examination should deal with revenue matters, and with a view to test the candidate's ability to converse in the language according to the second-class test he should be required to carry on conversation with a vernacular clerk, a ryot and a coolie for at least five minutes each on subjects essentially different. He should possess a good colloquial knowledge of the language. In testing the candidates' qualification in manuscript reading one or two manuscripts of moderate difficulty written in a plain running office hand should be given them to read and must be read with fluency and translated correctly. Under subject 3 the test may be applied as follows:—A person will make a statement in narrative form in the vernacular. The candidate must record the statements in English accurately as they are delivered and then read them over to the deponent in the vernacular with a view to ascertain whether the statements have been correctly recorded making such additions or alterations as may be found necessary. Under subject 4 he must dictate off-hand with some fluency the translation into the vernacular of an English report or other official paper to be furnished by the Board of Examiners. In subject 5 the paper on 'Translation from English into vernacular' will also be furnished by the Board of Examiners. The translation must be substantially correct in meaning and intelligible to an Indian, tolerably correct in grammar and spelling and free from any bad errors of idiom.

6. In the third-class test the candidate will be required to possess a fair colloquial acquaintance with the language to translate correctly into English an official vernacular report read out to him, to translate orders in the language and to read ordinary writing.

7. Blank forms of reports showing the nature of the tests will be furnished by the Board of Examiners. They should be filled in by the committee and returned to this office as soon as the examinations are over. Column 3 of the report is intended to show how the candidates have acquitted themselves in the examinations. Under 'Opinion' it should be stated whether they have passed or not. The dates on which the examinations began and ended should be specified in the reports. At foot of the report the Committee will remark whether the candidate was found to be negligent in preparing himself for the examination as not to be entitled to travelling allowance. Three copies of the printed nominal list for each centre will be furnished by the Board of Examiners. The question paper for subject 5 of the second-class vernacular test is common to all languages and candidates appearing for two languages by the full test should be required to render the English passage into both vernaculars. The petitions for subject 2 may be selected from the records of the Collector's office and those for the penal candidates coming up in the language other than that of the district must be obtained from the office of the Collector of the nearest district where the language or languages are spoken. The above procedure should be followed in the selection of persons with whom the candidates are to converse.

8. A candidate coming in half an hour after the appointed time should not be admitted to the examination.

9. No candidate should be allowed to leave the examination room till he has given up his answer paper and till the expiration of at least half an hour after the question paper has been given out; and having left he should not be allowed to return.

10. The question paper should be distributed exactly at the hour entered in the time-table, but if the Chairman is unavoidably prevented from doing so, the full time allowed for the paper must be given. The answer papers must at once be collected on the expiration of the time allowed and no candidate should be permitted to retain his paper longer.

11. Any candidate, whose name is not to be found in the printed nominal list furnished to the Chairman, may, notwithstanding, be admitted to the examination, if he submits a writ en statement declaring that he applied for admission to the examination. The name of the candidate and all other particulars regarding him, for which there are columns, should be entered in the nominal list.

12. Each Chairman is expected to look after the arrangements of the examination room personally.

13. Each Chairman will, as early as possible after the close of the examination, furnish the Secretary to the Board of Examiners, Chepauk, Madras, with a brief report on the examination. He will also return the statements of marks signed and dated by the committee and the printed list of candidates with the names of the absentees marked in red ink.

14. As there is reason to suspect that peons and monies are, by previous consent, made the means of communication between candidates in the room as well as between candidates and their friends and monies outside, they should be carefully watched and should not be permitted to leave the room while the examination is going on—except in case of urgent necessity. During the hours of examination care should be taken to see that no person loiters about the examination hall, in the verandas or in the adjoining rooms or in the compound.
